LOCAL NEWS.

The Boat Clubs were out practicing last evening.

The Hook and Ladder Company were out for a drill last night.

The almighty dollar rolls along Fort street towards the circus nightly.

The Myrtle boys had better put some soap on the bottom of their boat next time.

The Honolulu Rifles held no drill last night. To-night there will be a battalion drill.

Some counterfeit Hawaiian half dollars were in circulation on Hotel street over a month ago.

The Hotel-street dude "caught on" last night at the circus and started a little side show of his own.

Mr. William C. Lane of Kahuku ranch came back on the W. G. Hall yesterday and will leave for home today.

When men wager a big amount they ought to do it in style and not back out for a handful or two of Hawaiian silver.

Some hackmen have the poor taste sometimes to block up a whole street while they talk over the morning's gossip.

The steamer Kinaw took a cane carrier for Judge Hart's mill at Niuli, Hawaii, together with a lot of other machinery.

The Chinese who have poi establishments in the lower end of the town are complained of by the native residents around them.

A gay party of riders, both ladies and gentlemen, rode into town yesterday evening about eight o'clock by the Nuuanu Valley road.

We understand that Messrs. H. Davis & Co. will move their business to the store on Fort street, lately occupied by Messrs. S. J. Levey & Co.

Some of the men who make it a habit to stand on the street corners Sundays have been accused of becoming smitten with each other.

A hack horse tried to runaway yesterday morning on Punchbowl street, but was stopped by the driver, after tearing along for more than two blocks.

The Chinaman who collects clothes in the neighborhood of Hotel and Fort streets fell over his own back yesterday morning and skinned his nose.

The stench which prevails around the Old Corner Restaurant is something that ought to be abated—provided it don't ruin the reputation of the place.

There was lots of fun around the circus tent last night and lots more of the genuine article on the inside. Most everybody on the inside took a tumble.

The somebody who tied a rope across the sidewalk on Fort street near the Chinese Church, night before last, will get his name in print if it occurs again.

The usual little runaway occurred yesterday morning early at the foot of Fort street. The race was a lively one for a short distance, but the damages were nil.

If you wish to see yourself as others see you go to Williams' on Fort street and Harry Armitage will show you a trick worth two of looking at yourself in a glass.

If the man who constantly prints the history of the afterglow will please call at this office he will receive a finely finished chromo of a stuffed club. There now!

One of the best things of the season was the way in which a Chinese cook on Beretania street, who had a spite against his employer, succeeded in seasoning up a kitten fricassee.

If you wish to see a good show you needn't go to the circus tent; last night there were three good shows on the outside. No extra charge for reserved seats provided one could be found.

The case against Captain Tripp, who is charged with adultery, will come up in the Police Court this morning at nine o'clock. Go early if you wish to get a reserved seat. Popular prices as usual.

The Superintendent of the Water Works has ordered that the water be shut off from the lower Nuuanu reservoir, on next Friday the 23rd instant, from seven o'clock in the morning until ten o'clock in the afternoon.

The coming event of the dull, dull season, since the planters have adjourned and the Satellite has left port, will be in the shape of a vindictive little pamphlet which is to be issued—provided the types don't rebel.

A native employee on the Kilanea Hou was detected yesterday stealing a bottle of liquor from a case on board the vessel for shipment, and was taken to the Station House. It would have been cheaper for him to have put up a dollar for a bottle of gin. He begins to think so now.

Last Monday night seven of the men on the whaler Cape Horn Pigeon deserted and have not been heard of since. It is supposed that they were secreted on shore. If they were opium tins they could easily be found.

The Fort-street merchant who stumbled and put a story out of joint which he was telling, is reported to be in a better mood to-day. His friends are thinking seriously of moving into the country if he recovers his usual linguistic habits.

The watermelon crop in the vicinity of Waikiki is reported as being disposed to charge position during the night. If the Chinamen who own the melons catch the fellows who hold them up during the transformation scene, they will likely to be handed a little salt and pepper from the end of a shot gun.

A curious little fish was caught at Waikiki last Sunday by some parties spending the day there. The fish was caught in a net. It was about an inch and a half long and half an inch wide and was almost black shaped. It had a small tail like a rat's and two little horns over its jet black eyes. The color of the fish was of a transparent white with blue spots under the scales. It was a lively little creature and would almost jump out of the bucket when touched. It has since been killed and preserved in spirits.

Two school boys, engaged in rather a dangerous sort of sport yesterday evening on Nuuanu street about three o'clock. They were both riding horses on opposite sides of the road and held a line across the street. They then galloped down Nuuanu street trying to catch a loose horse with the rope. As the street was full of school children, coming from St. Alban's College, one two of these narrowly escaped being run over by the horse the boys were chasing. A little of this sort of fun goes a very long way.

There is a man who lives in the vicinity of Vineyard street, who does the little base act in such a manner that the cats of the neighborhood have organized to protect their ancient rights in the way of strange, weird night noises. After a thorough tuning up of his "silver-snarling" bassoon, which usually takes place about 10 o'clock every evening, there is no more peace in the stilly, starry, hushes of the voluptuous night. The neighbors can all testify these nightly visitations of chronic nose-trumping do often shake the very fences—nay, the solid base upon which rests his obese rotundity—until the very dogs do flee the block where he sleeps and snores and snores and sleeps.

It was quite a little joke that a delegation was appointed to take several gay banners to the royal party while they were on the other islands on the occasion of the birthday of Princess Kaiulani. The delegation, headed by Col. Judd, went up, but they did things in the usual Government style, and did not find out until they arrived that they had left the gay, silken banners at the Palace in Honolulu. It was a sore disappointment to the royal maiden as well as it was to the portion of the Government left at home when it had to fire up the steam tug and send the gay, forgotten, hushed and silken banners out to meet the W. G. Hall when she brought the party home. Otherwise the banners would not have been at most heads fluttering gaily when the powder was blown sacred from the King's battery. O my!

They say: that the afternoons are safest for lovers in some instances; that the person who discovered this fact was not in the habit of going home before dinner; that the coming political event will be argued in the newspapers by those who know the least about it; that the royal party came back from Maui feeling greatly relieved; that the best method of coming to terms with the man who has the advantage of you is by reminding him that you are the biggest; that seventy-five dollars were blown into the sweet mahope yesterday afternoon when the W. G. Hall arrived; that the sweetest thing in life is the forgetting of sorrow; that the talk about the Casino opening is all hush; that the gentle dreamer of Fort street sometimes hides bank notes in her jetty tresses; that the circus will not go to the other islands; that a new phase of the Chinese question will be given the public in due time when statistics are ready; that the last rose of summer before last is still in bloom; that somebody will get her eyes open if somebody else doesn't look out; that the people who frequent Thomas Square do not want it turned into a fair ground; that the reason for this is a very simple one; and that the coming of events will cast political shadows sideways.

The Circus last night was full of people and the performers were full of fun. There were at least one thousand people present. The tent, which is a large one, is divided into three departments. The music was fair and the performers were all in good trim. This Circus has at least performed all that has been promised in the bills, which is certainly a great improvement on other troupes that have visited these Islands. The crowd around the tent before the Circus opened was very large and the seating capacity of the stalls had to be increased to accommodate the audience. The performance opened with a grand Mexican Cavalcade in which the horses went through the figures of the quadrille. The pedal balancing of Prince Bungaroo and his son was equal to one of the political evolutions of the Hawaiian Government. One of the features of the show was Miss Ruby Scarsdale who wrote poetry in the air on a trapeze for fully half an hour. The juggling feats were exceptionally fine and the ground and lofty tumbling was participated in by all the best men of the Circus. The wire-walking feat by Mr. George McDonald was loudly applauded. The Japanese necromancy feat was "way up," as one of the Hotel-street dudes expressed it after the show was over. In the comic equestrian scene the pony Fosco out-kicked the correspondence between the Planters' Convention and the P. C. Advertiser. The Circus will give another performance to-night and it is needless to say that the money paid for seeing it is not thrown away even in hard times.

Answers to Correspondents.

P. S.—Yes, of course you forgot. Men of your stamp always do. By the way, how about that little racket for next Friday night?

Gay One.—No sir, we don't object to your singing a "Sailor's Wife." His Star shall be all that we objected to was the time and place.

Reporter.—The best thing you can do is, first, to learn to spell, and secondly, to get somebody who has a thimble full of brains to write your article for you—unless you are on a Honolulu paper.

P. M.—As to the weight of letters that depends: if it is a letter to a local paper on some live political issue, it will weigh about ten pounds to the sheet—in the writer's estimation, but if it is a love letter it will weigh about an ounce to ten thousand sheets in the estimation of the public. In either case the documents are not worth the postage, which should be charged at the rate of one dollar per grain.
